XCEO Launches New Enlightened Governance Tools Design

The XCEO, Inc. team is pleased to announce that today marks the launch of the new XCEO Enlightened Governance Tools user interface design. The new design incorporates an enhanced navigation system based on usability studies, client feedback and XCEO's boardroom expertise.

"As with all product designs we focused on finding a way to improve the user's experience while also providing him or her with the most efficient and relevant information," says XCEO's Web Services Director, Mike Dobmeier.

The new design provides users with a seamless browsing experience, with more rewarding outcomes, by providing intuitive navigational steps, single-click portal access, additional profile settings and enhancing readability using enhanced contrast. In addition XCEO's portal allows the user to move seamlessly to all four portal applications.

"Given our emphasis on our security, ease of use and coupled with our interest in continuing to develop unique and cutting-edge director and board products that other firms do not, this upgrade is a critical facet to our commitment to provide outstanding and personalized service to our clients," says XCEO's Program Director, Corporate Governance and Board Leadership Development, Michelle Ronco.

Additional features include the grouping of board and director related tasks. The user will know instinctively where he or she should be within the tools thus reducing the time necessary for an initiated or assigned task.

Also, new to the tools are managed and controlled notifications for assessment administrators and participants, automated client collaboration and a time-based evaluation expiration and removal system.

Enlightened Governance Board Performance Evaluation Programs

XCEO developed the Enlightened Governance Board Performance Evaluation Programs for public and non-profit directors and boards to meet the needs of boards in their pursuit of enlightened governance. There are over 25 unique evaluations available to XCEO's board clients and they are all completely web-based, and securely processed and stored.

All exercises include a comprehensive set of reports that are individually packaged within XCEO's presentation template to provide each board a thoroughly analyzed, tailored and detailed presentation of its exercise results. XCEO's automatically generated reports provide up-to-date industry data, benchmarking, statistical analysis and commentary for each set of results. For the benefit of XCEO's clients, a turnkey presentation for boards including breakdown of responses to each question and detailed analysis of the results relative to other performance benchmarks is provided for each assessment. These extensive reports allow boards, directors and committees, the ability to easily and efficiently analyze feedback and highlight critical areas of focus in order to improve performance.
