XCEO Launches New Website Design

Written by XCEO, Inc.

The XCEO, Inc. team is pleased to announce that today marks the launch of the new XCEO website. The modernized design incorporates six navigation tabs allowing clients and visitors to easily access the information about the unique products and services that we offer.

"As the overall theme of the new website redesign project evolved, we focused on finding a way to improve the user's experience while also providing him or her with the most efficient and relevant information," says XCEO's Web Services Director, Mike Dobmeier.

The new layout provides users with a seamless browsing experience, with more rewarding outcomes, by providing rich content, product information, portal access, media connections, current press releases, and access to our "XCEO in the News" articles.

Additional features include the new Client section, which contains exclusive updates and program information and provides access to our new global log-in portal for all individuals who have access to XCEO applications, including our Enlightened Corporate Governance Board Evaluations and our Extreme Personal Leadership (XPL) Tools.

Also, new to the XCEO website, is the Public Sector Governance section which introduces XCEO's efforts in the non-profit, university and foundation arenas. Inspired by the requests and urging of current clients, we are excited to launch this new branch of the XCEO organization and we invite you to learn more about our public sector initiatives. Please contact our new Program Director for Public Sector Governance & Board Leadership Development, Theresa Kiernan, for more information, tkiernan@xceo.net.

We welcome your comments and feedback regarding the new design and layout and your personal experience moving through the new site. Please contact us at info@xceo.net or contact Mike Dobmeier directly, mdobmeier@xceo.net.

The XCEO team would like to thank you for your continued support as your preferred partner on your journey toward Extreme Personal Leadership and Enlightened Governance.
